Silver Donald Cameron

Silver Donald Cameron is known from coast to coast as a speaker who uses humour and storytelling to enliven his provocative thought on a wide range of important issues. One of Canada's most versatile and widely-published authors, he has won four National Magazine Awards and various other honours for his work on radio, television and the stage. Since turning 65, he has skippered a 31-foot sailboat from Nova Scotia to the Bahamas, published two books and created a new business, the environmental web site TheGreenInterview.com. A man of many talents and interests, Silver Donald will share stories about his varied experiences and the significant people in his life that have helped to shape his view of aging and "who he wants to be when he gets old".

The Nova Scotia Centre on Aging

Through research, education and community engagement, the Nova Scotia Centre on Aging advances knowledge on aging to inform social policy and practice and enhance the quality of life of older people and their families.

Reception and Showcase

The Centre is recognized for its excellence in research and varied knowledge translation activities. During the past 20 years, it has been involved in more than 50 projects on topics such as family and friend caregiving, continuing care, abuse of older adults, age-friendly communities, dementia, and technology. Visit an assortment of displays during the Reception to learn about the Centre's contributions to social policy and practice. (Sponsored by the F.R. MacKinnon Fund)

Award Presentation

Several awards will be given to recognize significant contribution and excellence in the field of aging.
