This course will provide participants with an opportunity to examine current issues and trends in the assessment of student learning. A range of assessment practices highlighting both formative and summative assessment techniques will be reviewed. The course will also investigate underlying assumptions, beliefs, and values affecting approaches to student assessment. Participants will be encouraged to share some of the assessment challenges they encounter in their work settings.

This course may be used toward the following programs of study.

- Elementary and Middle School Education: this is a required course (restricted elective) in the GEMS program.
- Curriculum Studies: General: as a curriculum (GCRD) designated course
