Pamela Fancey has more than 10 years of project management, research and consultation experience. Her areas include caregiver assessment, financial support options for caregivers, policies for employed caregivers, family relations, social isolation of seniors, rural seniors, specialized programming and care units for persons with Alzheimer's disease and related dementias. Her research experience is practice and policy oriented, including quantitative analysis, policy analysis and evaluation.

She has co-authored a number of peer reviewed publications and technical reports and has made over 30 presentations at local and national conferences. In 2005, she gave two presentations at the 18th World Congress of the International Association of Gerontology in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.

Ms. Fancey has served on a number of community boards, including being former President of the Gerontology Association of Nova Scotia. As well, she is a sessional instructor with the Department of Family Studies and Gerontology, Mount Saint Vincent University. In 2007, she was the recipient of the GANS Award of Recognition. As Associate Director of the NS Centre on Aging, she assists with advancing its three-part mandate of research, continuing education and community consultation. Her role includes strategic planning, project development and implementation, budget monitoring, event planning, presentations and other dissemination activities. She represents the Centre on a number of committees and provides consultative services on aging-related issues.
