Research Tips!

Read your assignment!

In the rush to complete assignments, it is easy to miss crucial assignment details.

- What is required?
- What is your topic?
- How many articles?
- What specific types of information are required:
 - Books? Research articles? Peer reviewed? Product Reviews? Company Information?
- Has your professor mentioned any databases?

1. For Academic Sources: Select Peer review
2. For Professional Sources: Check types of documents under Source Type
3. Limit results to Recent articles
Low Risk: Depends on your assignment. How important is current information for your area of study
4. Limit results to Full Text
Very Risky: Limits only to the full text in that particular database. You could miss out on current relevant articles that are located in another database or collection

Adding MOUNT full text to Google Scholar

The screenshot shows the Google Scholar interface. The left sidebar contains the following menu items: Articles, Case law, Profiles, My profile, My library, Alerts, Metrics, Advanced search, and Settings. The 'Settings' item, which includes a gear icon, is circled in red. The main search area displays the query 'role of accounting in fighting fraud in nonprofit organizations' with 0.04 seconds of results. Three search results are visible, each with a title, author, publication details, and a PDF link. The first result is 'Role in Fighting Fraud in Nonprofit Organization' by Michelman (2006) from digitalcommons.unf.edu. The second is 'Fighting economic crime enforcement: Exploring the role of private sector' by Policing & Society (2006) from tandfonline.com. The third is 'An overview of research on auditor's responsibility to detect fraud on statements' from the Journal of Global Business Management (2012) from jgbm.org. The fourth result is 'Evaluation of frauds in public sector' by Mackevičius (2014) from etalpykla.lituanistikadb.lt.

Adding Mount FULL TEXT to Google Scholar

The screenshot shows the Google Scholar settings page. On the left, the 'Library links' option in the settings menu is circled in red. A red arrow points from this menu item to a search box where 'msvu' has been entered. Another red arrow points from the search box to a list of library options. A third red arrow points from the bottom of the library list to the 'Save' button. The library list includes 'Canadian National Catalogue - Find in AMICUS', 'Mount Saint Vincent University - Check Full Text @ MSVU' (checked), and 'Mount Saint Vincent University Library - Check Full Text @ MSVU' (unchecked). Below the list is a disclaimer about library access. At the bottom, a note states: 'To retain settings, you must turn on cookies'.
