Bachelor of Arts in English?

Know What's Expected

Studying English allows students to develop an appreciation for language, culture, and values. If you major in English, employers will expect that you have exposure to different verbal styles and practice in oral and written critical analysis. They will expect you to be an analytical reader, a critical thinker, and an effective communicator. French may also be an asset in some positions.

Transferable Skills

- Analysis and interpretation of information and the ability to critically evaluate it
- Written and spoken communication skills
- Knowledge of current social trends
- Strong interpersonal skills
- Ability to listen, clarify, question, and respond comprehensively
- Public Speaking and Debate Skills

What Employers Want to See

Contributions you make to your community reflect well on you as an individual. Employers are looking for students who are dedicated, hard working, and show a commitment to their interests. By getting involved on-campus (for societies visit mountstudents.ca) or off-campus early in your degree, you will not only show credibility in your area of interest but also a willingness to work towards goals.

You can also build your Mount Co-Curricular Record (CCR) with these activities at msvu.ca/CCRP and present this official document to future employers.

Necessary Skills

- Leadership
- Researching and writing skills
- Organization
- Project Management
- Word processing and editing skills

Where Can You Work?

An English Major offers a broad background in the humanities, arts, and social sciences. Graduates from English programs may find careers in communications, culture, law, education, religion and administration.

An English degree is also a great stepping stone for further education. Visit the Bachelor of Arts English webpage for more information.
