Pamela Fancey

Pamela Fancey has more than 15 years of project management, research and consultation experience. Her research areas include supports for family and friend caregivers, caregiver assessment, social isolation of seniors, rural seniors, age-friendly communities, abuse of older adults, and dementia care.

She has co-authored a number of peer reviewed publications and technical reports and has made over 30 presentations at local and national conferences. She also gives presentations and delivers workshops to community organizations and health care professionals.

As Associate Director of the NS Centre on Aging, she is responsible for the implementation of all of the Centre's activities. Her role includes strategic planning, project development and implementation, identifying research priorities and funding sources, budget monitoring, event planning, presentations and other dissemination activities. She represents the Centre at provincial, regional and national forums, and establishes, fosters and brokers partnerships with national, provincial and local organizations and government.

In addition to her role at the Centre, Ms. Fancey is a sessional instructor with the Department of Family Studies and Gerontology, Mount Saint Vincent University. She has served on a number of community boards, including being former President of the Gerontology Association of Nova Scotia. In 2007, she was the recipient of the GANS Award of Recognition.
