Hire a Mount Co-op Student

We make it easy to hire a co-op student by providing a personalized approach at every step in the hiring process.

Do you have projects that require additional support to complete? Do you have a new position to test? Are you interested in mentoring a student in their field of study? Hire a business administration or public relations co-op student for the Fall 2018 term (September to December).

About our students:

Co-op students will bring unique skills, a fresh perspective and an eagerness to learn and grow. The majority of public relations and business administration students seeking a fall 2018 work term are senior students who have previously completed two work terms. These students are currently in their fourth year and are seeking a co-op position for their third work term.

When considering hiring a student, keep the following in mind:

- Students are seeking a learning experience from you, our educational partners, and are bright and eager to learn. This partnership provides you with the opportunity to coach and mentor students to grow their experience and develop their confidence.
- Students have on-the-job experience and may have additional experience gained through volunteer opportunities, extra-curricular activities/hobbies and academic work.
- The Mount co-op program is committed to supporting employers to build a diverse workforce reflective of Canadian society, including women, Aboriginal students, students with disabilities and students from various visible minority groups.

To Post a Co-op Position:

Please login to the Mount co-op portal, Career Connects. Career Connects allows you to submit a job posting, review your application package when the position closes, submit an interview shortlist and rank students following interviews.
