

Three-Part Virtual Seminar Series

EXPANDING CONNECTIONS TO SUPPORT EARLY CHILDHOOD DEVELOPMENT IN NOVA SCOTIA

The objectives of the online seminar series include 1) To build on existing knowledge and identifying new understandings in early childhood, 2) To facilitate collaboration and relationship-building among policy-makers, practitioners, service providers, families, and researchers, and 3) To implement and evaluate an online learning platform for research seminars.

Bridging the Gap: Enhancing Communication Between ECEs and Families to Support Children's Social and Emotional Development

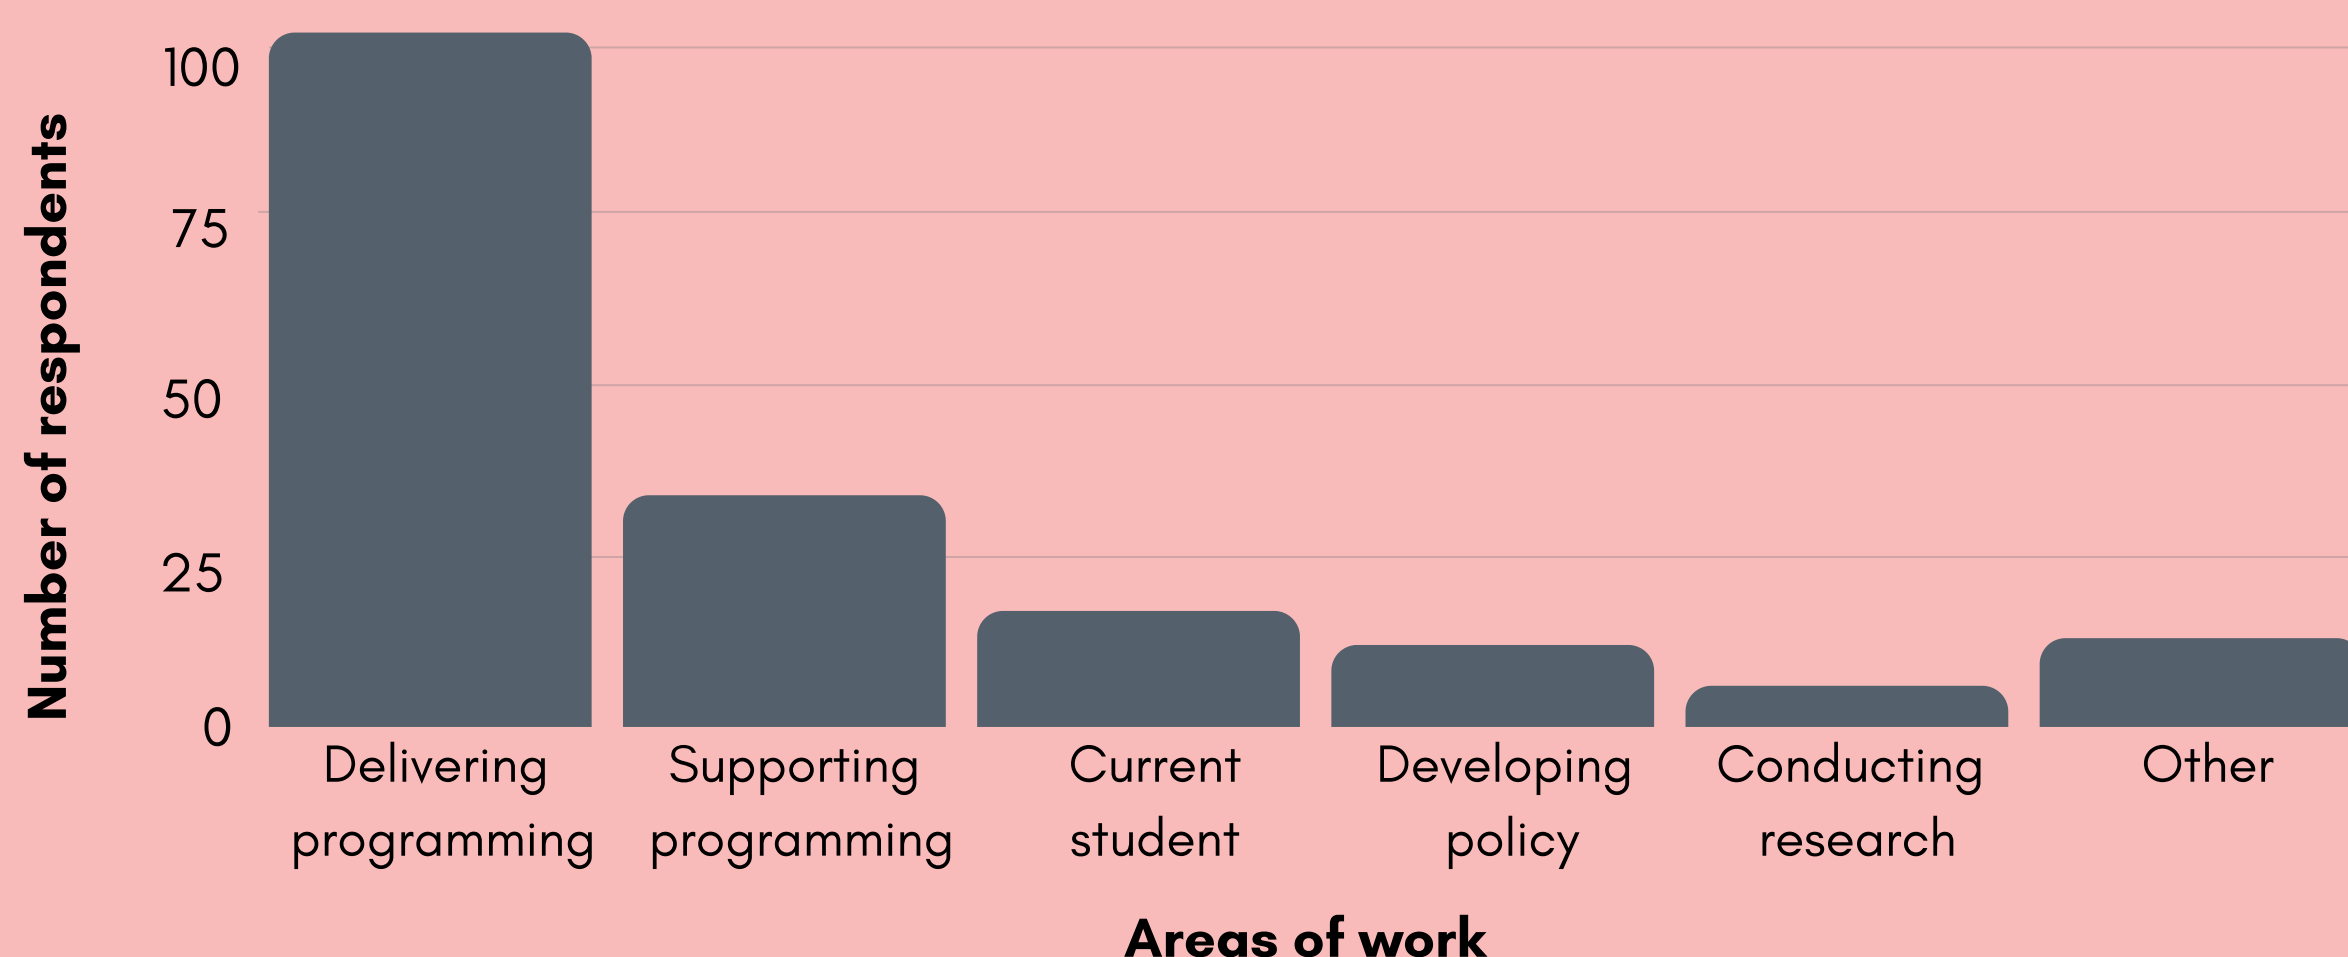

How Are Maritime Families Experiencing the Pandemic? Building a Connection Between ECEs and Families During COVID-19

Responsive Feeding Practices in Early Learning Programs: Strategies for Enhancing Healthy Eating Among Young Children

200
Attendees across three sessions

136
Survey respondents across three sessions

Attendees focus of work in the early childhood field

One word attendees would use to describe the seminars:

88%
of respondents indicated they were from Nova Scotia

97%

of respondents agreed or strongly agreed that the seminars provided them with ideas to use in their own practice

87%
of respondents agreed or strongly agreed that the seminars allowed them to meet new people

18,023

Total post impressions on promotions for all three seminars on Twitter

13,865

Total post impressions on promotions for all three seminars on Facebook

Watch the recorded seminars: <https://tinyurl.com/tzavarmt>

Contact us: CRCEarlychildhood@MSVU.ca

The Expanding Connections to Support Early Childhood Development in Nova Scotia project is supported in part by funding from the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council